Is There a Creator?

June 4, 2019

It was good to hear an American accent for a change. I asked Brandon what he was doing here and he told me that he was finishing his PhD in something called 'Mathematical Physics'. That sounded both intimidating and interesting so I began to ply him with questions about what kind of research he wanted to do and especially 'why'. His goal was to understand the mysteries of the universe, but the 'why' part of it led to another discussion entirely. I found him very bright (needless to say) and refreshingly honest.

Is there a Creator? He has been pondering that because certain Christian colleagues have been trying to share Christ with him. Does science prove there is no God? No, it inclined him to think there was one. Has he ever called upon God for answers? He said he has, but has not received a reply, but then again, he admitted he might not be recognizing "God's signals". I think he felt something was at work in our meeting that day and he hung on to our conversation as long as he could (his group was leaving).

At one point, as I tried to convince him that all men are morally bankrupt and are lost sinners. This he more or less agreed was true. I told him he was just a step away from the redemption and forgiveness found in Christ. At this he got excited and said that among all the religions of the world (he is very knowledgeable about this also) the concept of redemption can only be found in Christianity, and that because of it Christians 'always have hope'. I think he longs for that.

But then, our time was up. God was obviously at work, and I trust that through prayer Brandon will keep receiving the Lord's 'signals' until he tastes the redemption of God for himself.

For Praise & Prayer:

* We have been trying to get Ernie and Jaq into a good church and we finally got a weekend to visit one with them. We decided to visit Enon Baptist Church in Sunderland. Was this the answer to our prayers? It is a growing, lively church and that Sunday they were voting on a new pastor. This man and his wife just returned from pastoring an independent Baptist church in America and he was very familiar with Baptist Bible Fellowship missionaries. We both rejoiced to meet each other!

* The day before Dorothy had a met a couple from South Africa who were looking for a Baptist church and they also attended with us. I think they were also thrilled with the church. Wow, God is good.

* When we needed even more encouragement (don't we always?) God gave us a new supporting church in Pahrump, NV. We are so thankful for God's faithful supply.

In our next update we will tell you about our next 'assignment' from the Lord. What a blessing to seek to fulfill this ministry! We thank God for your help, for without it we could not do it!
